

Happy Passover to you! This holiday's traditions which connect us to Jews around the world continue through each and every one of us. We celebrate, we honor, and we understand that is what Passover is about! Our Jewish connection is one that ties us together and is important in all of our lives.

Those traditions and connections are the ties that also bring us together at the JCC, and that have made this community an important part of our lives. They are the connections that have made you so important to the JCC and part of the fabric of our JCC community.

As we reflect upon and cherish our relationship with each other and with our JCC, we ask you to remember the importance of community in your life and make a Gift to the JCC - a Gift that continues our connections, honors our traditions and strengthens the ability of the JCC to impact more people, develop more connections, create new relationships and strengthen traditions.

For your convenience you can now make your gift online through our secure network by clicking: here or by visiting our website at www.jccmc.org.

All of us at the JCC wish you good health and joy in the rebirth and renewal of springtime. At this time of Passover, we hope for you the blessings of health and peace to you and your family.

Thank you,
